

KODAK ALARIS CASE STUDY

Maximizing Efficiency with C2P

Jay Mathewson - Manager, Environment, Health & Safety

At Kodak Alaris I'm responsible for product compliance, regulatory analysis, and EH&S management systems. I also manage our producer responsibility and site compliance obligations.

Our Challenges

The challenge we faced was a common one - attempting to expand product offerings and market reach, while limiting or reducing resources. That challenge was further compounded by the rapid growth of product-focused legislation. We needed a more efficient tool to maximize the efficiency of our limited regulatory resources.

How Kodak Alaris uses C2P

We needed a solution that would help us save time, and C2P, the compliance knowledge platform, does that. The speed at which we can triage incoming issues has been improved as alerts can be filtered and customized. When we encounter a subject or project that's less familiar, 'Ask our Experts' provides us with direct access to the subject matter experts behind C2P. We also have confidence that we have no gaps in coverage as C2P encompasses nearly all the regulatory topics and markets applicable to our various lines of business in one tool.

Advantages of using C2P

- Automation: Our regulatory team has leveraged the workflow capabilities built into C2P, replacing a manual process with streamlined tools
- Faster Research and Analysis: The ability to filter alerts, coupled with the scope and English-language regulatory summaries provided by C2P, has resulted in substantial time savings. These same features also facilitate more efficient research within the regulatory library
- Support and Development: Compliance & Risks has been quick to provide notice and training to support new and relevant features. We also get to have input on the product roadmap to enhance the features and capabilities of the tool and user interface
- Ask our Experts: It is very helpful to be able to access subject matter experts who have more experience with specific issues
